AIM & SCOPE of 8th NGRSM

Modern geoscientific research involves diverse fields of classical geoscience and their applications for society. Updated knowledge is based mainly on the data from the field, state-of-the-art instrumentation, and evolving models. The young minds consistently contribute to the growth history of this geoscientific research.

The National Geo-Research Scholar Meet (NGRSM) started in 2016 as a regular event of the Wadia Institute of Himalayan Geology to encourage young researchers and students to improve their research interests, providing them a platform to share their research work, receiving feedback from the peers and refining their ideas. The event also allows them to interact with eminent geoscientists and understand the latest trends in Geoscientific research.

After the prodigious success of the previous editions of this annual national conference series on Earth Sciences, WIHG invites you again to its prestigious 8th Edition from 22 to 25th November 2024, at Shri Mata Vaishno Devi University (SMVDU) Campus, Katra, Jammu and Kashmir – 182320. This time, the meeting will focus on Jammu Himalaya, which will have two days of field transects across the Jammu Sub-Himalaya.

The Jammu Himalaya in the Jammu, Reasi, and Katra regions provides an ideal opportunity to investigate and understand various geological, geodynamic process, tectonic control, and natural resources and hazards. The region is situated at the forefront of the collision zone between the Indian Plate and the Eurasian Plate, making it highly significant in understanding tectonic controls and related phenomena. The Jammu Sub-Himalaya is characterized by Surin Mastgarh Anticline (SMA), which lies in the seismic gap region of the 2005 Kashmir and 1905 Kangra earthquakes. The anticline is about 250 km long, and some parts of its western extremity are in Pakistan. The SMA marks the frontal boundary of the NW in the Jammu Kashmir Himalaya. The anticline is characterized by non-emergent (Himalayan Frontal Thrust) HFT to its front.

The Jammu Sub-Himalaya broadly consists of two tectono-stratigraphic regions, the inner Sub-Himalaya in the north and the outer Sub-Himalaya in the south. The Inner Sub-Himalaya is the deformation belt between the Main Boundary Thrust (MBT) and the Medlicott Wadia Thrust (MWT), which consists of the faulted and folded Sirban Limestones, the Subathu, the Murree, and units of the Lower Siwalik. The outer Sub-Himalaya comprises the Siwalik folded units lying south of the MWT.
